THE SILVER CONVENTION.

The convention held at Chicago under the auspices of the Bimetallist League was the largest, brainiest and most respectable assemblage of the kind ever held in the country. The unanimity of sentiment in favor of the restoration of silver to the position it occupied before the demonetization act of 1873, was remarkable. Delegates from New York and the Middle States were as enthusiastic for free coinage at the rate of 16 to 1 as were those from the west and south, and they vied with the representatives of the silver States in their devotion to the silver cause. Thurman of Ohio, the distinguished son of a noble sire, who always fought for the rights of the masses, delivered an address, which was logical, convincing and unanswerable. He exploded the "sound money" platitudes and asked the goldbugs to explain what it meant. A large number of able men discussed the financial situation using arguments that cannot be controverted. A permanent organization was effected and committees appointed to devise ways and means to disseminate silver literature among the people. The general committee will meet in Washington next Tuesday and probably remain there during the session of congress.

That great benefit to the silver cause will result from the convention there is no doubt. The character and recognized ability of the men who composed it proves that the free coinage sentiment is general and that the people will overthrow the gold trust at the ballot box, if congress does not at the next session pass an act to fully remonetize silver.

MILLS' VIEWS.

Senator Mills of Texas has been interviewed since his arrival in Washington. He thinks congress will remain in session a year. He attributes the money scare to the efforts of brokers to compel the government to issue bonds. They had a large amount of money which they wished to put into government securities and raised the cry of hard times and pointed to exports of gold as proof of the assertion. They set to work to drain the country of gold, which was shipped abroad in large quantities. The effect was worse than they anticipated or intended. Individuals and financial institutions became alarmed and began to husband their resources, and banks would not loan money and depositors withdrew their funds.

Senator Mills cannot say how long it will take to repeal the Sherman law and he will not say how he intends to vote on the question. His constituents are for free coinage and it is probable that he will not act contrary to their wishes. As he thinks the extra session will run into the regular session it is evident that he believes there will be a long, fierce contest over the financial question and that congress is expected to enact laws that will afford the country some relief from the existing stringency.

SENDING MONEY TO CANADA.

Reports come from Canadian towns along the frontier that large amounts of American money is being deposited in the banks on the Canadian side of the line. One woman in Buffalo withdrew $45,000 from her home bank, and sent it to a bank in Hamilton, Ontario, last Tuesday. She did not know that Canadian banks, if as good, are no better than American banks. Not a bank that has suspended, except a few where the officers were dishonest or speculated in stocks, but what is amply able to pay every dollar due depositors. Banks loan money on good securities, in fact many declare they are too particular in that respect. They cannot realize on their securities in a day, and are, therefore, though their assets may exceed their liabilities by large amounts, not prepared to pay out coin to all depositors at a moment's notice.

Hoarding money in tin cans, where it is not as safe as in banks, and sending out of the country to foreign banks that are no better than home banks, of course increases the stringency, as it withdraws money from circulation.

In these times every person who has money where there is a bank which is known to be conducting business on safe and legitimate principles, should deposit it in the bank and aid in relieving the stringency.

THE PUBLIC DEBT.

The public debt statement shows a net increase in the debt, less cash in the treasury, during July of $4,264,813. The cash in the treasury decreased $4,574,722 in July. The interest bearing debt July 31, was $585,037,440; the debt on which interest ceased since maturity, $2,081,530; debt bearing interest, $374,002,046; total, $961,121,016. The outstanding certificates and treasury notes at the end of July were $57,382,591. These are offset by an equal amount of cash in the treasury. The total cash in the treasury is $732,641,707, the gold reserve $99,202,933, and the net cash balance $18,634,634.

In the month of July there was a decrease of gold coin and bars of $1,641,489, and an increase of silver coin and bars of $2,910,473. This includes the silver purchased under the provisions of the Sherman act.

The surplus in the government national bank depositories was $17,044,003, against $21,930,589 at the end of June.

A MURDERER CONFESSES.

A Reduction of Wages on the St. Paul Railroad.

MESSENGER TOVEY'S MURDERER. He Makes a Full and Detailed Confession of the Crime.

SAN ANGELES, August 2.—William Evans, arrested July 12, 1893, by Sheriff Thorne, assisted by Constable Masterson, and Under Sheriff George C. Graves, at Cat Camp, in the chapparral of this county, for the murder of Wells, Fargo's messenger, Tovey, in Amador county, June 11, 1893, made a full confession to Sheriff Thorne, Under Sheriff Graves and Constable Masterson yesterday afternoon.

As soon as the confession was made Sheriff Thorne wired R. C. Rust, district attorney of Amador county, to come to San Andreas immediately, as the prisoner desired to make his statement in detail before an officer of Amador county.

On his arrival here he, with Sheriff Gregory of Amador, was taken to the sheriff's office where the prisoner made a full and detailed statement of his crime.

A synopsis of the murderer's statement is as follows: "I got the rifle I shot Tovey with down in the valley. I came from near Red Bluff, Cal., and was stopping with Rooks near Cat Camp in this county; also at Kendall's near Lone, Amador county. I had the rifle with which I did the shooting hidden near Rooks' place. I attempted the robbery and killed Tovey. I had a horse and tied him near the scene of the robbery. I crossed the wire bridge at Comanche both going and coming, and traveled very rapidly to Rooks' house a distance of twelve miles, after committing the murder. The mare I rode belonged to Fairburn. I burned the grass around a buckeye bush, where I stood when shooting, to get blacking for my face.

"I did not know Messenger Tovey and did not want to kill him. I wanted to stop the stage and secure the treasure. I might have fired four shots, one at the messenger, one at the stage and once or twice at the horses. I stole the gun. When I got back to Rooks' it was daylight and I told Frank Rooks what I had done. He advised me to go away for a little while, which I did, but I returned the following Friday morning.

"I claim that Rooks' influence brought all this trouble on me. I was perfectly sober when I did the shooting. I selected this open place for attack because I thought the messenger would be off his guard thereabout."

The prisoner was taken to Jackson by Sheriff Gregory of Amador county, at 12 o'clock last night.

Had the affair become generally known outside of the officers a lynching would have unquestionably been the result.

The officers are now in pursuit of the other parties indirectly implicated, and there is no doubt but that they will share the punishment for the crime.

CRAZED BY THE SIGHT.

Seeing a Comrade Drowned Upsets a Young Man's Mental Balance. SACRAMENTO, August 2.—This afternoon about 4 o'clock, two young men of this city named William E. Brophy and Harry Waite went bathing in the Sacramento river just below the mouth of the American. Brophy was suddenly seized with cramps and called to Waite that he was drowning. The latter went to his assistance at once and endeavored to rescue him. Before he could reach him Brophy had sunk twice. Just as he was going down the third time Waite caught him and attempted to swim to shore with him. Brophy grabbed him and the two were sinking when Waite managed to free himself from the drowning man. Brophy then sank and was seen no more.

This is the story told by Waite when he first emerged from the water. He ran up the bank of the river some distance, where a number of men were bathing, and reported the drowning. Immediately after giving the details of the accident he was seized with hysteria and made an attempt to drown himself, but was "restrained" by the men about him. Young Waite was brought to the receiving hospital in an unconscious condition. Later he showed every sign of being crazed, and City Physician Nichols found it necessary to give him anesthetics to keep him from doing himself violence. Dr. Nichols says it is highly probable that the young man has lost his reason, and that when he regains consciousness he will be a raving maniac.

Young Waite has been here but a short time, having come from San Francisco. The body of Brophy had not been recovered at a late hour, although the river has been thoroughly dragged with grappling hooks.

A Cut in Railroad Wages. MILWAUKEE, August 2.—An official notice has been issued by the St. Paul railroad ordering a cut of 10 per cent in the wages of all employees of the commercial department whose pay exceeds $50 per month.

THE GEARY EXCLUSION LAW.

The lawyers engaged by the Chinese Six Companies are preparing to make another test of the constitutionality of the Geary registration law at the October term of the United States supreme court. They say Justice Harlan was absent in Paris at the former hearing and it is the practice of the supreme court to consent to reconsideration of points involved in a decision given by other than a full bench where important constitutional questions are concerned. They also cite the fact that the death of Justice Blatchford has removed one of the five jurists who upheld the law.

As the Geary act is a dead letter on the statute books, and no attempt is being made to enforce its provisions, it seems unnecessary to bring the matter before the supreme court again. The Six Companies are wealthy, however, and their counsel do not object to getting the case again before the court, when they are well paid for doing so.

Depredations of a Coon. That coon of Rueger's, which has been sauntering around the lamp-post on the corner of Ninth and Banks streets from time to time during the past three months, made things lively Sunday afternoon at Mr. B. A. Fox's bird store on Broad street.

Mr. Rueger got tired of the quadruped and wished to dispose of him. The coon was accordingly turned over to Mr. Fox, who was to sell him. He was kept at the bird store. Sunday afternoon, when everybody was away, there began a general havoc on the part of the animal. Climbing over a partition in a show window, he proceeded to chew up five Abyssinian rabbits. Only one of the pets was left to tell the tale. His consoling then dined upon a handsome Brahman cock in the rear of the establishment and afterward proceeded to deprive a beautiful tropical song bird of his plumage.

He next made an attack on a number of goldfish, and when his appetite was satisfied there wasn't a single representative of the piscatorial tribe left in the aquarium. Several other depredations were committed, and his consoling was making preparations to exterminate every valuable bird in the establishment when two festive coppers crawled over the transom and put an end to his calculations. He was carried back to Rueger's, but soon effected his escape and made it lively for the squirrels in the Capitol square. A small regiment of small boys were in pursuit of the animal, which with an all important air mounted the Washington monument and soon sat complacently on the top of George's head, eying his pursuers with an expression of mingled defiance and curiosity. He was finally captured.—Richmond Times.

Spahr and the King. All are not kindly who wear a crown. At a court concert the Duchess of Gohla expressed in the curtest style her disapproval of the loud playing of Spahr, the great violinist and composer. While he was playing she sent a chamberlain to request him not to make so much noise.

The king of Wurtemberg was in the habit of amusing himself at a court concert by playing cards. Spahr, being invited to play before the king, informed the chamberlain that he must decline the honor unless the king abstained from card playing. The chamberlain was horrified, but the violinist insisted, and the king conceded the point. But in order that the royal time might not be wholly occupied in listening, he stipulated that the two pieces set down in the program for Spahr should follow each other.

Nevertheless his majesty showed that the violinist's demand had ruffled the royal temper. Etiquette prescribed that the king should give the signal for applauding. At the conclusion of each piece the king gave no signal and a solemn silence reigned in the salon. The king had his small revenge.

The king of Bavaria was a gentleman. At a court concert he noticed that the usher had neglected to put a seat for Mme. Spahr, an excellent harpist, who was to accompany her husband. The king placed his throne chair on the platform and with the mild insistence of a gentleman compelled the lady to sit in it.—Youth's Companion.

Washington a City of Churches.

"There is no city in the United States which might be called the city of churches with more appropriateness than Washington. They are not particularly large or imposing, these Washington churches, but there is an immense number of them. As a matter of fact, the capital contains nearly 200 churches. The Methodist denomination claims 52. The Baptists come next with 45, then the Episcopalians with 28 and the Presbyterians with 21. The Roman Catholics have 13, the Lutherans 10, the Congregationalists 4, the Hebrews and the Christians 2 each and the Unitarians, the Universalists and the Swedenborgians 1 each. Undoubtedly, hold the half a dozen nonsectarian bodies.—Washington Letter.

If this should prove to be a large coal deposit its importance can hardly be conjectured. It will be better than a gold mine.

CALIFORNIA AND SILVER.

The Result of the Examiner's Inquiry.

As heretofore stated in the JOURNAL the Examiner called upon the editors of the state for their opinion as to whether or not California is a silver state. That paper now says if the newspapers may be taken as representing their constituents, it appears safe to say California, at least outside of San Francisco, is a silver state by a substantial majority. Out of sixty editors who have responded, thirty-eight are for silver without qualification and twenty-two are against it.

ARGUMENTS FOR SILVER.

The reasons advanced by those who hold that California is a silver state are these:

1. Our interests are closely interwoven with those of the neighboring states and territories in which silver mining is the chief industry.
2. We need a greater volume of money.
3. Silver is a necessity in the transaction of retail business.
4. Silver is the currency of the masses.
5. Free coinage would give us the trade of Mexico and the other Spanish-American republics, as well as of Asia.
6. Contracts have been made with the understanding that they could be paid in silver.
7. California is the fifth state in the union in the production of silver.
8. The people do not need a circulating medium that possesses a foreign purchasing power as much as one that has a domestic debt paying power.
9. The single standard is in the interest of money lenders.
10. The present system is enriching one class and impoverishing another.
11. When the price of silver was high times were good.
12. Silver is the backbone of the western portion of the United States.
13. Laborers receive their pay in silver and should get as much as possible for it.
14. The exports of California exceed the imports, and it is only the importers who require gold.
15. Much of the prosperity of California in the past was due to the stream of silver that flowed in from the Comstock.
16. The masses of our population belong to the debtor class.
17. Free coinage would lift the mortgages from our farms and make profitable markets among prosperous miners.
18. The demonetization of silver means hardship and suffering and the stagnation of business.
19. The quantity of gold in circulation is not sufficient to transact the business of the country.
20. Free coinage is the only tangible thing in sight in the direction of an increased volume of sound money.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST SILVER.

Those editors who deny that California is a silver state in the Nevada and Colorado sense, justify their position by these considerations:

1. California produces ten times as much gold as silver, and has only $1 in silver in circulation to $5 in gold.
2. All contracts in this state are made payable in gold coin, and if that should be driven out of circulation nobody could pay his debts and the community would be bankrupt.
3. Cheap money would injure the laboring and business classes.
4. It would be impossible to maintain the parity of silver with gold under free coinage. The resulting depreciation of the currency would check industrial progress and decrease the purchasing power of wages and labor.
5. The people who clamor for more money are those who have nothing to exchange for money of any kind.
6. The silver problem cannot be solved without an international agreement.
7. California has always maintained a gold standard, and greenbacks and silver have always been quoted in terms of gold.
8. Silver is an inferior currency, because while the government can compel its own citizens to take it, it cannot compel the nations of the world with whom we trade to accept it.
9. The owner of a silver mine is no more justified in demanding the free coinage of his product than the owner of a nickel mine in calling for the unrestricted issue of 5-cent pieces.
10. Both the Democratic and Republican platforms in California last year opposed free coinage, leaving only the Populists on that side.
11. The people desire enough silver in a silver dollar to make it the equivalent of a gold dollar.

LANDS FOR INDIANS.

Plutes and Washops to Get Homesteads.

Ex-State Senator Arntzen of Illinois, recently appointed special allotment agent for the Washoe and Plute Indians, is now completing the work of Captain Pigott, a former agent. The News says his business is to locate homesteads for non-reservation Indians. He will allot lands to the Plutes near Stillwater, Churchill county, and military reservations at Forts McGarry and McDermitt in Humboldt county. To the Washoes he will apportion lands in Carson, Sacramento and Susanville districts.

The Independent says John F. Weeks of Wells, while going from this place to Brunson yesterday afternoon with a heavily loaded four-horse team, was severely hurt. His team ran away while going down a steep hill upsetting the wagon and throwing him under the wheels. His right wrist was broken and one leg badly bruised besides other injuries.

WHITE HORSE MINES.

What the "Dispatch" Says of Them. White Horse only needs development.

The Willey-Poole claim has done its assessment work.

John Hayes is working toward the Bald Eagle and now he won't bond or sell to anybody.

Dave Washburn and E. Z. Bailey have very fair prospects in the Tiger. They are down twenty feet and still going.

Four Spaniards from San Jose will start to work the Adelaide this week and are under contract to sink 100 feet and crosscut the same distance.

Ex-Mayor Gregory of Sacramento was in town this week taking a look at the White Horse mines. He is pleased and will return and do some business that way.

On the Donelin-Toft claim the tunnel is in 25 feet and the quartz ledge is visible for 150 yards. The prospects are fine, and quantity not quality is desired for the latter is assured.

Mr. Scheunert returned from White Horse Monday night and went to Sacramento the same evening. He has arranged the preliminaries by hiring several men to put the Jim Blaine mine in proper shape for sinking by straightening up and timbering the shaft.

Telegraphic Notes.

Douglas Davis, crazed by jealousy, fatally stabbed his wife and cut his own throat at Greenville, Ill., yesterday.

The treasury purchased 419,000 ounces of silver, all that was offered, at 70 and 9-100 cents an ounce yesterday.

New York banks have stopped the shipment of currency to the interior and large establishments are paying out silver dollars.

About $7,000,000 in gold is ordered in England for shipment to the United States. The Normands will sail to-day with $4,500,000 aboard.

Balfour, the leader of English Conservatives, has decided for bimetalism. He says the gold standard would not satisfy commercial wants and a double standard would prevent dangerous oscillations in trade.

Minister Blount's report on Hawaiian affairs is said to have been received at Washington. The report will probably not be made public until the senate meets. It is said that annexation is discussed and the conclusion reached that the Hawaiians do not favor it.

O. P. Huntington, the railroad magnate, says if congress will repeal the Sherman act, make $10 the legal tender limit of silver and not permit the issue of paper money under $5 it would put a large amount of silver in circulation. He would have the government issue $300,000,000 in 3-per cent gold bonds to be used as collateral for the national currency, and let banks issue notes for the par value of old bonds. This, he thinks, would restore confidence, make money plenty and be a good thing for silver.

The East Anxious to be Enlightened on the Silver Question.

Hon. A. D. Griffin, who has been in the east for several months, writes as to the attitude of the people of the east on the silver question. He says: "We are making converts to the silver cause every day. The sentiment in favor of free coinage is certainly gaining ground fast with the people. Everybody wants to know about the silver question. All they want is to understand the silver question to be just as staunch silver advocates as we are. The press is against us, but the people are not. They know there is something wrong outside of what the daily papers publish; that all this financial trouble is not on account of purchasing silver. I look for the Chicago convention to do a great work, for the mass of the people are anxious to get all the knowledge they can out of the question."

Mr. Griffin also writes that he will attend the great silver convention at Chicago.

O. W. Ayer had a hearing before Justice Linn yesterday on a charge of manslaughter in causing the death of James H. Ward at the county hospital August 1st. The testimony adduced at the investigation before the justice was substantially as reported in the JOURNAL yesterday morning. At the close of the testimony the justice took the matter under advisement until this morning, and in the meantime released Mr. Ayer upon his own recognizance.

Complaints having been frequently made to me that young men and boys are in the habit of bathing in the river above the flour mill dam, in plain view of many family residences and indulging in all kinds of vulgar language and conduct and in the indiscriminate use of firearms, I hereby give notice that the practice must be stopped forthwith or the offenders will be arrested and punished as the law directs.

H. P. BROWN,
Chief of Police.

The Edison Phonograph Company at Orange, N. J., has discharged 800 men. Edison issued a statement in which he says: "The phonograph works shut down because we have nearly completed all orders on hand, and the proprietor, seeing that the country has resolved itself into a national lunatic asylum, has decided to wait until the wave subsided somewhat."

One thousand unemployed men arrived in Chicago yesterday on freight trains from the west. A dispatch says the number of men now out of work in the city is larger than ever before and laborers are being thrown out of work in the city and factories are reducing their working force.

It has been officially announced in the house of commons that the French blockade at Bankok has been raised. An agreement establishing a neutral zone between French and English territory has been signed and there is no prospect of war.

Deserving Praise.

We desire to say to our citizens that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. S. J. Hodgkinson, druggist.

"August Flower"

Mr. Lorenzo F. Sleeper is very well known to the citizens of Appleton, Mo., and neighborhood. He says: "Eight years ago I was taken sick, and suffered as no one but a dyspeptic can. I then began taking August Flower. At that time I was a great sufferer. Everything I ate distressed me so that I had to throw it up. Then in a few moments that horrid distress would come on and I would have to eat and suffer again. I took a little of your medicine, and felt much better, and after taking a little more dyspepsia disappeared, and since that time I have never had the first sign of it. I can eat anything without the least fear of distress. I wish all that are afflicted with that terrible disease or the troubles caused by it would try August Flower, as I am satisfied there is no medicine equal to it."

A Central Sun in the Universe.

Suppose that in the wide extent of the Atlantic ocean there was one individual diatom of a specially interesting character—I do not mean one species with its myriad individuals, but one solitary specimen of a particular microscopic organism, which happened to flourish somewhere or other in the north or south Atlantic ocean at some depth or other from the surface.

Suppose that absolutely nothing further was known as to the whereabouts of this individual object, it might, for anything we could tell, lie beneath a mighty ice floe in the arctic regions; it might be basking on the surface in the equatorial regions; it might be tossed in the surf on the shores of St. Helena; it might be floating at the mouth of the Amazon; it might be off the Cape of Good Hope or amid the Antarctic icebergs.

Would any reasonable man who desired to obtain that unique and extraordinary specimen for his collection imagine that if he went down to the coast of Cornwall and lifted a single drop from the Atlantic he would have such incomparably good fortune as to find in it this rare diatom of which but a single individual existed throughout the millions of cubic miles of water which compose that mighty ocean? Of course the mere statement of such a case is sufficient to show its absurdity. But the improbability that the ardent naturalist would secure the prize in the way I have described is not one whit greater than the improbability that even if there were a central sun it should lie within the domain of our scrutiny.—Sir Robert Ball in Fortnightly Review.

People Who Forget Umbrellas.
"Oh, that's nothing," said the clerk as he gathered up the abandoned umbrella; "we find them here every day."

It was in a railroad office, where people came and went every few minutes. And it was raining too.

"Now, you'd think," he continued to an amused gentleman, "that anybody who had sense enough to come in when it rains would have enough left to take their umbrella with them if they didn't want to go in, wouldn't you? But they haven't. There may be reason for a chap going away and leaving his cane on the counter, but I can't exactly place those who deliberately go out into the rain and leave a silk umbrella behind them. Yes, they come back sometimes—sometimes they don't. There must be something in the fact of buying railroad tickets. You see, they are not used to traveling. Buying a railroad ticket is an event to them. They show that by the questions they ask. They have their minds gorged with the important details of the proposed journey, the time the train is to start, the time it gets there, the connections, the checking of baggage and all that sort of thing, and they haven't room for umbrellas and canes and packages. It's the same on the cars."

—New York Herald.

The First Sight of Gibraltar.

The first sight of Gibraltar, I think, disappointing. It means so much, and so many lives have been given for it and so many great ships sunk by its batteries, and such great powers have warred for 1,300 years for its few miles of stone, that its black outline against the sky, with nothing to measure it with but the fading stars, is dwarfed and spoiled. It is only after the sun begins to turn the lights out, and you are able to compare it with the great ships at its base, and you see the battlements and the mouths of cannon and the clouds resting on its top, that you understand it. And then when the outline of the crouching lion that has faced all Europe for a hundred years comes into relief you remember it is, as they say, the lock to the Mediterranean, of which England holds the key.

And even while you feel this and are greedily following the course of each rampart and terrace with eyes that are tired of blank stretches of water some one points to a low line of mountains lying like blue clouds before the red sky of the sunrise, dim, forbidding and mysterious—and you know that it is Africa.

—Richard Harding Davis in Harper's Weekly.

Spontini's Decorations.

Caspar Spontini regarded himself in the light of a demigod, and when inspirations crowded upon him he donned a wide, togalike gown of white silk with a border of gold and a fez of white silk embroidered in gold, from which a heavy tassled hang down. With great dignity he sat down before his desk, and if a grain of dust was visible on the paper on which he penned his music he rang the bell impatiently for his servant to remove the obstacle. Spontini owned so many medals and decorations that they could no longer be accommodated on his breast. At a grand musical reunion at Halle an old musician remarked to a comrade, "See how many decorations Spontini has, while Mozart has not one." Spontini, who overheard it, replied quickly, "Mozart, my dear friend, does not need them."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

"Lucky Pins" are the favorite little gifts of the hour, and several special patterns are used to signify good fortune to the wearer. The mysterious virtue of the horseshoe has long been recognized, and of late years the mistletoe sprig has been considered equally fortuitous, while, added to the merry thought, it acquires new virtues. This, with the "Campanella Margherita," which is the facsimile of an ancient gold bell found during the recent excavations near Rome and presented to the queen of Italy, are the popular mascots of the day. The sides of the latter bear the inscription, "Toi Com. Voe Tet," of which this is the translation: "I (little bell) was made against fascination."—New York Tribune.

Imprisoned in Their Cyclone Pit.

In Hart county, Ga., there lives a family by the name of Finley, who dug a storm pit in the front yard. They started it up with heavy doors, ventilation tubes and furniture to make it comfortable for a day's abode if necessary. With the indications of an approaching cyclone Monday the family retired to the underground quarters. When the storm subsided they found that some immovable obstruction had been blown across the door of the stormhouse, and they were prisoners. Finally the neighbors, in searching for their bodies, supposing them all to be dead, removed a great tree that had fallen across the door, and the family were rescued in time to save their lives.

A State Without a Militia.

Delaware will soon be without a state militia. This condition of affairs has its origin in the adverse action of the state legislature as to an appropriation made for the support of the national guard in that diminutive but prosperous commonwealth. As soon as the legislature defeated the militia bill every officer and enlisted man in the admirable and well-disciplined little force voted to discharge, and they are now engaged in carrying the discharges to a conclusion that, while personally creditable, most discreditably to Delaware. It may even prove to be dangerously inconvenient, for the posse comitatus is not the power it once was and, in fact, can but rarely be assembled, much less depended upon.—Washington Star

Mr. Keenan's Serious Charge.

George Keenan, the Siberian traveler, writing in the Russian extradition treaty in The Forum, makes the startling assertion "on the highest authority" that even now "the Russian secret police at St. Petersburg open and read the private letters of the American minister and the members of the American legation." He adds significantly: "It seems to me that a government which makes a practice of opening and reading not only the private letters of its own subjects, but the letters of the diplomatic representatives of a friendly state, is not a government upon whose honor it is safe to rely in a question of extradition."

She Was His Wife.

Alfred Stockham, a resident of Wethersfield, Conn., and his wife and one child went to Hartford to see the circus. After the procession had passed they strolled up Main street together. A dispute arose between them, and the fellow struck his wife in the face, breaking her nose and falling her to the ground. When arrested and asked why he struck her, Stockham replied, "Why, she's my wife."

The Result of a Dog's Shake.

A fire which destroyed the house of John Downey on Grand island, near Buffalo, was originated in a queer manner. A large Newfoundland dog, which was asleep in the room, shook himself, and in so doing upset a lamp, which exploded and set fire to the house.

In Glass.

That's the way Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets come. And it's a more important point than you think. It keeps them always fresh and reliable, unlike the ordinary pill in cheap wooden or pasteboard boxes.

They're put up in a better way and they act in a better way, than the huge old-fashioned pills. No gripping, no violence, no reaction afterward that sometimes leaves you worse off than before. In that way they cure permanently. Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the liver, stomach, and bowels, are prevented, relieved and cured.

They're tiny, sugar-coated granules, a compound of refined and concentrated vegetable extracts—the smallest in size, the easiest to take, and the cheapest pill you can buy, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned. You pay only for the good you get.

There's nothing likely to be just as good.
